“ To Janie Mae’s Family:

When you have known someone your whole life, it is so hard to say goodbye! Though the miles and years have separated us for decades, some folks live in our hearts forever. Janie Mae was one of those special people. I grew up hearing her unique voice – I could recognize Janie Mae’s voice a mile away – it was truly distinctive! She was often the life of the party, with her hearty laugh and that huge personality to match. She was Eyvette’s big sister and Marcy, Bonita, and Darla’s mom – all dear, childhood friends of mine. I share in their sorrow today, but I will celebrate Janie Mae’s life in the weeks and months to come.

Ms. Lovie, Janie Mae’s mother, was one of our first neighbors on Midway Drive dating back to the mid-1960s. I have the fondest memories of sitting in her dining room waiting patiently while she styled Eyvette’s hair before we strolled happily off to kindergarten every afternoon. Janie Mae and Red were two of the few people from my past who still called me “Susie Q,” and Jimmy Jack called me “Susie Wong.” I felt the love and affection just the way they said my nickname. The memories still bring a smile to my face. Whitaker families are eternally bonded, we have shared common loves and losses through generations spanning eight decades. It is such a rich history.

Janie Mae will always be with us – her spirit lives on in her beloved daughters. Ronnie and I send our deepest sympathies to Robert, Eyvette, Marcy, Bonita, Darla and all their extended family and friends.

With love,

Susie Foy
