“ I am just writing because I just found out, my friend is gone. Although we did not see each other often, it didn't matter, because when we did, it was like a celebration. She only lived across the street in the Hise Rise and I could see where she always had her car parked. I did however notice, it was no longer in that spot anymore. But you know people move or change things up. Nothing unusual about that. But, now I know. She was one of God's children. I have never seen her mad or sad. She wore a smile all the time. When you talk to her, she made you feel special. I am sad because I know from now on, that will be one celebration, I will never have again. I know now she's in God's hands and he has just called one of his angels home. For that I am happy, she is in total comfort. So long, my friend. Kenny Ray Robinson
